Westerly's Firebug Discovered.

Attempt to Burn Sherman Plant by Boy Under Six—
Wanted to See the Firemen Out—Trolley Connections Inconvenient—Italian Laborers Claim Wages Due.

Passengers on the Groton-Stonington road that reach Westery at fifteen minutes past the hour arrive just as the car on the Norwich-Westerly line leaves for Norwich, while if the time for leaving was twenty minutes past the hour close connection could be made and so it is said, this could be done without serious inconvenience to the Norwich schedule. This same rule applies to the trips of the Groton-Stonington road to cars that leave for Groton at ten minutes before the hour. In the one case passengers are delayed an hour and in the other half an hour.

With the Watch Hill cars on half-hour schedule time the connections could be made satisfactory. It is believed schedule time will be made on that newly equipped road when the overhead work is completed.

The greatest inconvenience of connection is with the Norwich-Stonington roads, and the time difference is so slight that it would seem as if some agreement could be reached for the better accommodation of patrons. Naturally this condition does not interest the Westery public as to the delay passengers add to the apparent activity of Dixon square, and by the passengers having more time in Westery an opportunity is given them to observe the beauty of the place and incidentally to spend some of their loose change.

Last Thursday afternoon deliberate attempt was made to fire the plant of the R. A. Sherman Son's company, in Main street, and the matter was not made public in order to give the police better opportunity to trace the incendiary. Fire was started on the second floor of the building where hard pine is stored by lighting paper against a pile of lumber. The blaze was discovered before it had made much progress and was extinguished by one of the Sherman employees.

Since then the place has been closely and secretly watched by a special constable, while the police have been on the alert to get some clue that would lead to the incendiary.

Chief Mansfield got hold of a bit of information that resulted in the discovery of the guilty person, and now that the first bug is known the chief is at a loss to decide as to what action should be taken. He certainly is not favorable to prosecution and imprisonment.

Monday morning Chief Mansfield, accompanied by Special Constable Maxwell, went to the residence of Frank Perkins, near the Sherman plant, and accused Altonzo Perkins, who is not quite six years of age, of having attempted to burn the Sherman property. The boy at first denied, but finally acknowledged his guilt, after some sharp questioning. He accompanied the chief to the Sherman property and led him to the exact spot where the fire had been started.

The boy said he set fire to a book, a magazine, near the pile of lumber then piled some loose shingles on the fire and ran away. He gave as a reason for the fact that he did it to see the fire. He promised to be a "good boy and never do so any more," after the chief told him what could be done to him for his criminal action.

The boy is known to have started fires in the cellar of his home, where there is at times quite a quantity of pamphlets and advertising matter, as his father is employed as a distributor in and about Westery.

"Now that the track work of the Pawcatuck Street railway is completed and the Italian laborers discharged, there comes the usual trouble in regard to wages due that follows almost every large contract. This is caused by a system necessarily in vogue by the contractors in securing labor, and at the start is known to that effect, and they are usually satisfied with the plan until the contract is closed, and they find there is money due them that they have trouble to collect.

The contractor usually make a contract for labor with some English-speaking man, who agrees to furnish a specified number of laborers at a set sum per diem and the labor contractor is made boss of the gang who furnish. He receives the pay of all the men at the contract price and he agrees to pay the men a daily wage scale mutually agreed upon. In some instances the boss sells to his men the food they consume while on the job. In this way there is always a mix-up before final settlement is reached and as a rule, the laborers are the losers, but through no fault of the general contractors.

Monday morning a gang of 14 men were discharged on the Pawcatuck Valley road job, and they claim two weeks wages due them. They came to Dixon square in a body and made their complaint to Policeman West and pleaded with him to go and get the money for them.

They were informed that the police department was not a collection agency, and that if they had been legally wronged they could get redress, but that it would naturally come by the intervention of the sheriff armed with the necessary documents of procedure. The spokesman of the party declared that they would get the money due them before the boss left town, and the players were still in town and the men's claims were not satisfied.

There is typhoid fever in the locality where there was diphtheria less than a year ago, and Health Officer Stanton is attempting to check the spread of the disease. A daughter of Alphonso Quattrone, 114 Pond street is ill with typhoid fever and is being cared for by the family physician and the quarantine regulations are being strictly enforced. The case of diphtheria that resulted in several deaths was discovered in the same house, which gives weight to the belief that there is lack of proper sanitary conditions.

The second case of typhoid fever is a daughter of Donato Venditti in the same street. The afflicted girls are under ten years of age. During the diphtheria rage there was a general improvement of sanitation in that section, but there is much more needed in that line before the community is properly safeguarded.

Health Officer Stanton aided by the physicians and police department succeeded in keeping the diphtheria cases within the territory where it originated and like precaution will be taken in the present cases.

Capt. John F. Murphy of Woonsocket is on a visit to relatives in Westery, somewhat improved after a long siege of illness. He went out in the Spanish-American war as lieutenant of B company (Pawcatuck). Third regiment and was promoted to captain of S company of the same regiment. For the past two years he has been suffering from disease contracted while in the service and is a deserving applicant for a pension. Before the Spanish-American war Capt. Murphy was several years connected with B company, Third regiment, C. N. G.

Cyclone hose wagon was shipped to Providence Monday and is to be supplied with a chemical tank of 25 gallon capacity, which will be a very useful hose and basket will add nearly one thousand pounds to the weight of the apparatus, or a total of about 3,000 pounds. The wagon is originally built to carry one thousand feet of hose, and was constructed for that weight. Still many several streams of water to extinguish. The value of chemicals is in attacking a fire before it breaks through a building, and is of no use after a stream of water has been applied.

COLCHESTER

Beautiful Music and Flowers at Congregational Service—Borough Team Defeated by Fitchville, 18-11.

At the morning service in the Congregational church Sunday Rev. Frank Goodchild, D. D., of New York took as his text, "Not as others preach, but Christ crucified." During the services the choir rendered the anthem, "Invocation," and were assisted by Messrs. Leavenworth and Lawrence of Wallingford, tenors. At the offertory Miss Emma Williams of New York sang an alto solo, "The Better Land," by Frederic Cowen. After the Gloria, J. L. Robbins of Hartford sang a bass solo, "The Waters of Babylon." The pulpit and platform were decorated with pondlilies, arranged by Mr. and Mrs. Gillette and Mr. and Mrs. J. Newton Dauphine. Mr. Gillette brought the lilies, there being over 1,000. This is the second Sunday Mr. Gillette has brought lilies for decoration. After the services the lilies were taken to the homes of those who were unable to attend.

Personal.

Wilbert L. Hall and his mother, of Norwich, were in town Sunday. David S. Day of Bridgeport was at his home on Norwich avenue over Sunday.

Parry Morgan of New York is at his home on South Main street, called home by the serious illness of his mother, Mrs. H. C. Morgan. Fitchville won. The Colchester baseball team met their Waterloo Saturday afternoon, when they played the Fitchville team on the park and were defeated 18 to 11. The game was lost to the locals by errors. They outplayed their opponents, but their errors cost them runs every time and lost them the game. Shugrue went in to box the first inning and was batted for five runs. Lazinski went in to pitch in the second inning, but was unable to pitch but three innings on account of his arm giving out. He had just settled down to good work, as the score shows, when he was obliged to retire. Nekins was then sent in to pitch and started in all right until the fatal seventh, when the errors of his teammates caused the defeat, and nine runs were made by Fitchville in the inning. The following was the batting order of the two teams:

Fitchville—Mara 2b and p, McManus p and c, Coughlin 1b, Fields cf, T. Kane c and ss, Gribbins 2b, J. Kane lf, Ewersey ss and p, Kelly rf.

Colchester—O'Brien 2b, Shugrue p and 3b, Clark lf, Ryan c, Lazinski p and 1b, Rosen ss, Nekin 3b and p, Randall cf, Clifton rf.

Score by innings:
Fitchville . . . 5 2 0 0 0 0 3 0—18
Colchester . . . 0 0 3 0 2 0 4 0—11
Arthur Hale umpired; three base hit, O'Brien; two base hits, Nekins and Coughlin.

Following was the cast of characters: The Queen, Miss Frances Marchese; The Princess, Miss A. Phillips; The Prince, Miss Mildred Marchese; The Maid, Miss Alice Eggerman. The oldest of the players was only 12 years and the youngest 7 years, and they took their parts finely and were heartily cheered. After the play dancing was enjoyed. Kelly's orchestra furnished music and Prof. O'Brien called the figures.

A Strike Against War.

A strike of workmen against war—that is the method advocated in the London Chronicle, by Maurice Hewitt as effective to bring about international disarmament. In its final meaning, this would be only an appeal to public opinion. Here is another effort to induce organized labor to regard itself as a class, to attempt to isolate itself from body politic. In a republic such as the United States that effort could not succeed. It ignores the cardinal principle that all men are created equal, whatever social condition they may attain afterwards. The interparliamentary union, for example, will not consider such a proposition.

Such radicalism ignores the power of the franchise. It shuts its eyes to the theory and the practice of representative government. It is this spirit that assumes that all the work of the world is performed by manual labor. It forgets that to paralyze society would mean suicide and starvation. It is almost superfluous to suggest that there are practical difficulties in the way of a strike against war. To be effective such a movement must be international. Again there must be some obvious force behind such a threat. No joint committee of trades unions can be found with souls so dead as to deny its native land—Washington Post.

The city of Bangkok is the only place in Siam lighted by electricity.

CHOCOLATES

Chocolates and Bon Bons that as you eat them taste good, the taste lingers, forms a pleasant mental impression so that the next time you have that hankering for Chocolates you instantly think how good those last Chocolates were that you bought from The Lee & Osgood Co. They were made by Park & Tilford of New York. If you could see the inside of the Park & Tilford Candy Factory you could fully appreciate why their confectionery tastes so good—everything is spotlessly clean, light and sanitary, and the girls who handle these goods wear bright, white uniforms and handle each piece of chocolate with chocolate tongs instead of with the fingers. They come to you clean and bright, as if as you munch them the chocolate crackles and you get just the flavor of the pure fruit cream centers that makes a smile of contentment steal over your face as you say, "These chocolates made by Park & Tilford perfectly elegant!" and you bought them at
